All items are to be sold absolute without minimums or reserves unless noted above pursuant to above commission structure. In the event that the Seller bids on their own items and in the event that the Seller is the high bidder, Seller understands that state regulations require Lawler Auction Co. to charge full commission as if the item (s) were sold to any other party. Such commission is due and payable upon the date of the auction. Seller hereby commissions Lawler Auction Co. to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the items. Seller guarantees and hereby acknowledges that there are no liens, mortgages, or encumbrances against any of the items and that the Seller has full authority to sell this vehicle. Seller agrees to maintain insurance on said vehicle until such time that it is sold, as Lawler Auction Co. assumes no liability for fire, theft, vandalism, acts of God, or damage to said vehicle. Seller is leaving said vehicle on property of Lawler Auction Co. at its own risk. Lawler Auction Co. shall mail a check for the selling price, less the commission fees listed above to the Seller on the Wednesday following the auction, provided that a clear title has been provided to Lawler Auction Co. together with bill of sales or buyer's orders that are required to transfer vehicle over to the high bidder, and provided that Lawler Auction Co. has been paid in full by the high bidder. Buyers are charged a 10% Buyer's Premium. Authority and power of attorney is hereby granted for Danny J. Lawler or one of his employees to sign any documents on Seller's behalf necessary to transfer vehicle over to high bidder. In the unlikely event that a high bidder leaves the auction site without finalizing the transaction or paying for an item, or if an absentee bidder or internet bidder fails to pay for the vehicle, the vehicle will remain the property of the Seller, and there will be no charge for running the vehicle through the auction. Lawler Auction Co. has the authority to re-auction the vehicle at any future auctions if the vehicle is not picked up by the Seller.
